DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-18 have been examined.

Specification

2. The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.
3. The applicant is requested to review the specification and update the status of all co-pending applications made mention of, replacing attorney docket numbers with current U.S. application or patent numbers when appropriate. References to U.S. applications or patents should make it clear as to what the number refers (e.g. U.S. Patent No. #), instead of listing only the number.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
5. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
6. Claim 12 recites the limitation "computer readable medium" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

7. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

8. Claims 1-18 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the disclosed invention is inoperative and therefore lacks utility. Claims 1-18 of the invention produce no tangible output the claims are merely directed to performing an algorithm composed of a method, computer readable carrier, and apparatus that as claimed produce no tangible result and since the invention as claimed lacks output of a result has no utility.

9. Claims 1-18 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 1-6 are directed to a method that has no concrete or tangible means but is merely the recitation of a mathematical algorithm that is not stated as being part of any system that involves such means as is necessary to make such a claim statutory.

10. Claims 7-12 are defined as being a computer readable carrier where the applicant has defined carrier to include an audio frequency, radio-frequency or optical carrier wave (pg 16 paragraph 0065). The stated computer readable carriers do not conform to patentable statutory subject matter.

11. Claims 13-18 are referred to as a cryptographic apparatus that is not defined as necessarily being of a concrete and tangible means. As claimed a cryptographic apparatus comprises any apparatus for performing such an algorithm such as the thought process of a person and thus is comprised of non-statutory subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

12. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

13. Claims 1, 7, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hars et al U.S. Patent No. 6,763,366.

14. Regarding claims 1, 7, and 13: If a condition test true combining a plurality reduction/ steps for calculating a GCD and combining a plurality of inversion calculations (Fig 1, Col 1 line 23 – Col 4 line 64)

If a condition tests false performing a single set of reduction steps and performing a single inversion calculation step (Fig 1, Col 1 line 23 – Col 4 line 64)

As provided for by the cited art these calculations are performed in this same manner.

Where the decision of branching within the algorithm is concerned branching upon the testing of a condition to be true or false is arbitrary since the establishment of such a condition is subjective to an individual; for example if a variable equals a certain value and tests true for equaling that correct value and branches way that is determined to be true, is the same as the variable testing false for not equaling every other number and thus branching in that same direction, as such the same functionality is achieved with the determination of a false condition raised wherein the underlying condition is actually true but is tested by a subjectively decided test.

Conclusion

15. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is reminded that in amending in response to a rejection of claims, the patentable novelty must be clearly shown in view of the state of art disclosed by the references cited and the objections made. Applicant must show how the amendments avoid such references and objections. See 37 CFR 1.111(c).
